

SYSTEM FOR DISPENSING REACTANT MIXTURES

Abstract

A system for controlling dispensation of multiple component reactant mixtures. A mixing chamber is positioned adjacent to a part. A metering ram is actuated to pressurize at least two reactant components. The metering ram is stopped if a measured pressure value exceeds a predetermined pressure value. At least one flow meter measures a volume of a reactant component passing through the system.